Through the Community School Lunch Program the Food Distribution Administration is assisting communities in providing adequate and proper foods for the nation's children. It is your responsibility to buy and prepare foods economically, to buy only those foods that are needed for your program, and to buy foods having the highest protein and vitamin content and which, in relation to price, will make the greatest contribution to children's nutritional requirements. Home-grown fresh vegetables and berries are now coming into abundant production and must be consumed locally in order to (1) provide an immediate market and (2) save transportation.

James H. Evans
Regional Administrator

NOTE: No indemnity payments will be made for any food purchased by a school before that school has received formal notification in writing from the FDA State Supervisor that it is eligible under this program.
